

Graham-Cassidy Cuts Provider Tax Program in West Virginia

The Graham-Cassidy legislation would have a significant impact on the way West Virginia finances its Medicaid program by slashing provider taxes to 4.0%. Medicaid is an important payor for long term services and supports for seniors and people with disabilities across the nation, helping them accomplish basic daily activities like bathing, getting dressed, fixing meals, and walking. There are few alternatives to long term care financing and Medicaid is the only viable option for many people due to challenges with private financing options.

It is important to note the cuts shown below are only based on the provider tax reduction included in the bill. Other changes to Medicaid financing that are included in the bill will also have a significant impact on nursing centers.
