New OSHA Resources: Low/Unavailable PPE and Reporting Staff Cases

AHCA/NCAL released four new resources on guidance from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) and the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) on critically low or unavailable Personal Protective Equipment (PPE). These new resources are applicable to all long term care providers.

- A form letter providers can fill in when responding to OSHA inquiries due to complaints regarding limited or unavailable PPE.
- A document on OSHA guidance when PPE is critically low or unavailable including steps providers can follow.
- An explanation of OSHA and CDC guidance on N95 respirators that are critically low or unavailable. This resource provides five options with guidance on what to do for a limited supply of N95 or other respirators to no N95 or other respirators available.
- A document with updated guidance from OSHA on employer recording and reporting requirements for COVID-19.

New CMS Cohorting Guidance

Today, CMS released detailed guidance on long term care facility transfers. This matches the cohorting guidance that AHCA/NCAL shared with you previously.

All nursing homes and assisted living communities should make plans for cohorting residents even before COVID-19 enters the building. Cohorting is imperative to help control the spread of the virus. If possible, nursing homes and assisted living communities should also begin preparing wings, units or floors as “isolation units”. Isolation unit should be a separate, well-ventilated area, ideally with a separate entrance.
